Talking Storybook: Meera's Rakhi

A Sikhora Kids storybook. Read it together, then answer the questions at the end.

It was Raksha Bandhan! Meera had made a rakhi for her little brother Arjun, with red thread and a shiny bead.

Arjun sat down and held out his hand. Meera put a small tilak on his forehead and tied the rakhi on his wrist.

Then she gave him a sweet. "Thank you, Didi!" said Arjun, and he gave her a gift he had made himself.

"A rakhi is a promise to care for each other," said Dadi. "Cousins and friends can tie rakhis too."

Meera and Arjun promised to help each other and stay kind, today and every day.

1. Where did Meera tie the rakhi?
○ On Arjun's foot ○ On Arjun's wrist ○ On Arjun's hair

2. What did Meera give Arjun after the rakhi?
○ A sweet ○ A ball ○ A book

3. What does a rakhi mean, said Dadi?
○ Winning a race ○ Going to sleep ○ Caring for each other